COVER

The cover illustration, "Scene at the Signing of the Constitution," was painted by Howard Chandler Christy. The Director General of the United States Constitution Sesquicentennial Commission proposed in 1937 that a painting be commissioned as part of the 150th anniversary of the Constitution. After heated debate about spending funds for art during an economic depression, the Congress established the commission in 1939, whose members awarded the task to Christy. He located portraits of the signers, researched authentic costumes, including a pair of George Washington's breeches on exhibit in the Smithsonian Institution, and sketched Independence Hall in September to capture the proper angle of sunlight in the room. The 20 by 30 foot canvas was painted in a sail loft of the Washington Navy Yard, where sailors modeled the figures in the scene. The painting was dedicated in 1941 in the Rotunda of the Capitol, where it stood on view for 16 months. Enclosed in a hand-carved frame, it hangs in the east stairway of the House wing of the Capitol.

The United States Constitution was signed on September 17, 1787 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.
